So it would be nice to have some kind of option to not download a program that would only work half the time, or to filter certain numbers out from a list of numbers. A: Hi, It sounds like your smartphone doesn't have the ability to deny incoming calls. As you've already noted, there are apps that exist to block incoming calls, however, they are not always free and it is generally considered bad manners to block phone calls without someone's permission. An alternative, as a temporary solution, is to put your phone on silent or vibrate mode. Alternatively, you could ask your phone to always ring with a certain number (eg, your parents' phone number). A movement disorder specialist, Dr. Dre helped invent a whole new genre of music — and later launched his own headphone company.
