I installed AutoCAD LT 2012 on my laptop. Does anyone know of a reliable version of AutoCAD that is compatible with the RAIN features in LT 2012? I have no problem using the stand-alone version but it would be nice to have RAIN on my laptop as I do. I will be running Windows 7 x64. I have a copy of Windows 7 (x64) for a stand-alone license (and it is a full copy). If you have any legal advice for me, I would be truly grateful. As you can imagine, I do not have any easy way to contact Autodesk. Last, I have no access to another computer for a while. Any help will be appreciated. Mar 12, 2019 This is my first post on here, I hope you can help me. Dec 15, 2019 My version of AutoCAD LT 2012 did not work with Windows 10. I was able to fix this with Autodesk. Jan 8, 2020 Thank you so much. I found the trial version of AutoCAD 2012 (not LT). That works perfectly. I found this in a post on MS Word and am grateful for it. May 21, 2020 I had to find a new solution to my problem. I used the Autodesk Help File to get detailed help on what I needed to do. That procedure solved my problem. Concise 1. Navigate to 2. Request your serial number from the Autodesk account portal. 3. Click on the "Download" button to obtain your AutoCAD 2012 Serial Number. 4. Enter the serial number in the serial number box on the Licensing page. 5. Select "OK" to verify the serial number. 6. Click on the "Submit" button. 7. Select "I do not need to activate my copy of AutoCAD at this time." 8. Select "Next" to continue. 9. Select "Yes" if you wish to be included in future offers for AutoCAD. 10. Select "Next" again. 11. Select "I am happy to have your AutoCAD 2012 product. Please continue with the online registration process and log in to your Autodesk Account to download your product." I copied the serial number directly from the Autodesk Help File
