Deskgram Features: Send photos and videos from your computer to the community instantly. Upload and share to the community in a few easy steps Mashable - "Deskgram is like what Twitter did for photos when the social network launched. It's a smartphone app that allows you to share photos from your computer. You can add photos or videos. You can add a description and attach them to a public post or you can share privately with your friends. It's very basic, but we love that it's dead simple." Product Hunt - "Deskgram has worked hard to make sharing from your desktop a one-step process. You can open it up and send any files that you've downloaded from your computer to the community." According to MacRumors - "Users can take a picture with any photo capture program by pressing the share button in Deskgram and choose "Upload Photo" in the menu. A blue bar appears that asks you to choose a location to upload the photo to (there are options for a Google Photos album, Facebook, and a folder, which you can get to by choosing "Folder") and then hits you with a "Upload OK" button." TechCrunch - "Yet another photo app has launched and, yep, it's called Deskgram. Here's what you can do with it." ProductHunt - "Upload from your computer and share straight to your home feed. So, for example, if you get a new picture on your computer, you can open the app and send it directly to your home feed." 9to5Google - "You can take a picture of your desktop with any camera and send it from your computer directly to your Facebook timeline." ProductHunt - "Sending photos and videos is really the only reason why you'd use Deskgram. You can upload any file that you've downloaded from your computer." DigitalTrends - "Deskgram itself is no biggie—it's not much of an app to write home about, or anything. But one of its smartly appointed features, called Snapshot, could be big." Heise - "It's like

Deskgram Scheduler

Deskgram Scheduler is a great tool for those looking to schedule posts based on user actions. Note that Deskgram Scheduler is not an Instagram app. It is a desktop application created by our own Peter Ellis who has created a desktop application, a website, and a mobile application for uploading to Instagram. Deskgram Scheduler is only available on Windows. This is a paid desktop application and is in no way affiliated with Instagram. It is to help you sort and control the posting activity on your Instagram account, but does not duplicate the capabilities of Instagram. Deskgram Scheduler removes the need for you to set up a 15-minute time interval for each post. This means you can set up a post based on an existing action on your Instagram account, such as new followers or a new photo upload. The program will start looking for actions that occur on your Instagram account. You can set the date range and the amount of time that has passed. Your actions will be listed, and you can view detailed information about them, such as how many Instagram followers you have, how many photos or videos you uploaded and when you uploaded them, and more. You can also set a special deadline for uploading a photo or video. You will still be able to schedule posts at any point during the timeframe you select. With Deskgram Scheduler you can see real time updates about the actions on your Instagram account. You can change the date and time of future posts, adjust the deadlines for posting, or share the details of the action with your followers. As you set a new schedule using Deskgram Scheduler you can "follow" your actions to know when you upload a post and you are following the deadlines you set in the program. No longer do you have to worry about forgetting to schedule a post, you can have the program do that for you automatically. No matter if you are on Windows or Mac, Deskgram Scheduler is a great way to maintain the posting rhythm on your Instagram account. ## What's New in the?

Deskgram Scheduler is an easy to use schedule tool, created by Ian Kurahara. Create a To-Do list, or schedule tasks based on a recurring repeat date & time. Create as many tasks as you like and add as many tasks as you need. Tasks are based on relative date and time. For example; if you schedule a task to 'Monday 7pm-8pm' you'll see the'repeat' days (Monday, Tuesday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday) and'start times' (7pm, 8pm, 8am, 8pm, etc.) You can pick your own dates and times for your recurring task. You can also select what day of the week, morning, afternoon, or night to perform your task. You can have multiple tasks that apply to your recurring task, too. When tasks are complete, you have the ability to checkmark, uncheckmark, hide and show the task, or remove it entirely. Editing tasks is also easy. Simply double-click on a task to edit its properties. Task date and time properties: Type of Task [link] Start date Start time Repeat Repeat days Repeat time(s) Reminder days Reminder time(s) Removed Task(s) Deleted Task(s) You can also choose to have your task(s) automatically scheduled based on the current date, your choice of days, times or both. Tasks can also be assigned to a contact, a specific person or group of people, or a location. When a task is assigned to a contact or person it becomes a to-do-alert. When a task is assigned to a location it becomes a reminder.
